CROSBY CASE WILL BE TEST

W. H. Blodgett Says it Will Sound
the Powers of the State Accounting Board.

REPORT TO ATTORNEY GENERAL

No Member of Republican Company Ever Before Field Examiners as Their Report Alleges.

That the case of Edward Crosby will test the powers of the public accounting board is the statement of W. H. Blodgett in last night's Indianapolis News. Mr. Blodgett has seemingly taken much interest in Rush county taxpayers for several months and although the facts in the Crosby case have been set forth at length once before Mr. Blodgett again goes over the ground in much detail. According to him a copy of the report of the field examiners will soon be in the hands of the attorney general, who he says will send a copy to the prosecutor, who will see whether or not there is anything that needs investigating. Mr. Blodgett intimates—and Mr. Blodgett often intimates—that this case will be the opening wedge for a number of other discoveries although he does not say just how this will happen.

Mr. Crosby, former trustee of Rushville township, it will be remembered, was charged with something like $8,000 by the field examiners. Practically all of it seems to be on technicalities involving the construction of the law. After the report was published Mr. Crosby made a rather complete explanation and said that he had asked the examiners for permission to make the same explanations to them, but that it had been refused.

Some of the testimony by local citizens before the two field examiners is published in Mr. Blodgett's article and the article further gives the various accounts in which it is alleged that Mr. Crosby took excess credit.

That there are mistakes in the report of the field examiners is evident from one statement which is made in the Blodgett article. The report is quoted as saying "We find the following sums, for which trustee has taken credit on cash book and report entries, are in excess of payments as shown by checks and items which payees under oath state are in excess of actual payments." In this list is the Republican Printing Co. No member or representative of the Republican ever appeared before the field examiners to testify. The alleged discrepancy in this case is only ten cents, but if the report is as unreliable in other respects as in this it may be that a further investigation would indeed bring out some interesting facts.

At any rate if the article sets forth the facts about the proceedings in the future the case will soon come to a head and Mr. Crosby will be allowed to make an explanation which it is thought will put an altogether different color on the report of the examiners.

WILL ENTERTAIN VISITORS

Connersville Shriners Will be Local Lodgemen's Guests.

Invitations have been sent out for a social meeting of the Rush County Shriners' Association, to be held in the Masonic temple tonight. The Shriners will hold the meeting tonight to prepare for the entertainment of the Connersville Shriners at the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, which will show here one week from next Monday.

SUSPEND NINE STUDENTS

Indiana Men Forced to Leave For Kappa House Breaking.

Nine young men, students of Indiana university, have been suspended by the committee on student affairs for breaking into the Kappa chapter house while the girls were at their homes during the spring vacation and sleeping in the coeds' beds. The university officials refused to divulge the names.

CONVERT PARK INTO A SUMMER RESORT

Six Young Men Take Outing in Idle City Property and Enjoy the Evening Breezes.

HAVE EVERYTHING BUT A LAKE

It's the simple life for several young men who have taken advantage of the idle city park and have converted it into a veritable summer resort. They have every convenience there that could be found at a fashionable outing place with the exception of a lake and they are hoping that the present rains will continue so that they may be able to take a plunge in Hodge's branch. They have two tents and each one is installed with electric lights. Aside from that they have city water at their very door and everything is convenient. Several large branches and rustic seats are to be found near the tents and a large twenty-foot swing which affords much amusement, has been made. The members of the party are Frank Priest, Howard Mahin, Clyde Early, Hale Pearsey, Ownie McKee, Barton Caldwell, Eli Kinney and Clay Benedict.

MISSING TAILOR ONCE LIVED HERE

Larry Cosand, Who Married Miss
Belle Oliver, Has Suddenly Disappeared.

GONE WHEN WIFE RETURNS

Larry Cosand, the tailor, will be remembered here, where he lived for a few years. He has left his home in Spiceland for unknown parts. Mr. Cosand married Miss Belle Oliver of this city. A Spiceland dispatch says:

Larry Cosand, the tailor, has gone. He packed up a few of his belongings and quietly quitted Spiceland and Mrs. Cosand can throw no light on the subject. Last week she went to Anderson to visit his sister and the arrangement was that Larry should go to Anderson on Saturday evening and remain over Sunday. When Mrs. Cosand returned to her home Monday after a most pleasant visit, she was astounded at finding a note from her husband stating that he had gone for good.

CHURCHILL FUNERAL.

The funeral services of William Churchill will be held at the home in North Main street tomorrow morning at nine-thirty, conducted by the Rev. J. W. Turner and the Rev. C. W. Tinsley of Pittsburg, a former pastor here. Burial in East Hill cemetery.

REVIEW BOARD FINISHES WORK

Fix Valuation on all Corporations in County Including Banks and Manufacturing Institutions.

WERE IN SESSION ONE MONTH

Assessments on Property Were Changed in Few Instances For Various Reasons.

The members of the Board of Review completed their work yesterday afternoon about four o'clock after being session for a month. They fixed the valuation of all of the corporations in the county and made a few changes in the assessment of property of tax payers over the county. They reviewed carefully the personal list and the mortgage exemptions. The members of the board this year were George Havens and Ezekiel Priest, who were appointed by the court and the county officers, Jesse M. Stone, auditor, Alvan Moor, treasurer and William Gowdy of Arlington, assessor.

The board had no complaints from any corporations in the county whose valuation they fixed. The action of the board was in accordance with the wishes of all concerned. As is always the case the assessment of some property had to be changed for various reasons. In a very few instances assessments were either too high or too low and it was necessary to change them. In some cases, and they too were not very numerous, the board found it necessary to add more to the assessment on account of additional improvements since the assessor had covered that territory. There were a few instances where some property was overlooked by the assessors and that was placed on the tax list. In a very few instances, people who had property in two townships, were assessed for all of their property by each assessor and they made the corrections there.

The total valuation of all of the corporations in the county are as follows, exclusive of real estate:

Scott-Madden Co.	$ 5,000.00
Park Furniture Co.	10,675.00
Rushville Glove Co.	400.00
Weeks Fresh Meat & Provision Co.	1,140.00
Pinnell-Tompkins Lumber Co.	8,500.00
Innis-Pearce & Co.	33,600.00
Peoples Natural Gas Co.	10,000.00
Central Fuel Gas Co.	12,500.00
Rush County National Bank	148,584.53
Rushville National Bank	128,829.77
Peoples National Bank	71,820.00
Peoples Loan & Trust Co.	36,050.00
Bank of Carthage	91,674.80
Arlington Bank	9,321.39
Manilla Bank	10,245.00
First National Bank of Mays	17,674.41
Glenwood State Bank	26,434.56
Farmers Banking Co. (amount of taxes)	315.00
Railroads	1,536,405.00
Interurbans	179,185.00

IS MARRIED HIMSELF.

The city of Chester, Pennsylvania, is to be the real friend of the newlyweds. Following his action in calling out the police to prevent the hazing of a newly wedded pair on July 4th, Mayor Johnson said that a general order would be issued commanding the police to stop horse play at all weddings hereafter. "Marriage is neither a farce nor a joke," he said, "and there will be no more foolishness at weddings while I am mayor here." The mayor is a married man.

RAIN BRINGS NO GREAT INJURY

Very Little Damage Done to Any of the Various Crops so Far Excepting Hay.

HARVEST IS RETARDED SOME

Several Farmers Forced to "Lay By" Corn a Little Previous to Desired Time.

The weather of the last few days has brought both detriment and good to farmers throughout the State. The excessive rain in this locality has been of great good to the corn crop, but it has also caused several of the agriculturists of the county to "lay by" their corn crop from the double cultivation to the proper time of change. In the northern part of the State where there has been little if any rain since the April showers and snow the "out pour" has been of extraordinary benefit to the corn crops.

Wheat cutting was in full blast at the time the inclement period set in, and hundreds of acres of wheat have been cut all over the State, there is a possibility of mould playing havoc with a great deal of the severed golden grain unless there should be a sudden change in weather conditions. In some localities there has been heavy wind and pelting rain which has blown and matted the uncut wheat to some extent. However in Rush county we are especially fortunate in the fact that we have not had much wind and that the majority of the source of the staff of life still remains prey for the binder.

Perhaps the greatest damage that will result in this county from the wet spell is in the hay harvest. There is quite an amount of timothy and some clover on the ground that has lain throughout all the rain and it is quite doubtful whether this part of the crop will ever make a feeding hay.

However we find that the corn has derived practically as much if not more good than harm, that the wheat crop has not been injured to any great extent as yet, and that the greatest damage has been in the hay harvest, yet it will be far from a complete failure. The rains of the last few days have been local rains to a great extent although reports show that nearly all the State has gotten rain one or more times within the last five days.

IS PAINFULLY HURT WHEN ANKLE TURNS

Carl V. Nipp is Confined to Bed at Crooked Lake, Where he is Taking Vacation.

FAINTED AFTER THE ACCIDENT

Friends of Carl Nipp have received word from him at Crooked Lake, near Winona, where he is taking a short outing, that he fell and sprained his ankle one day recently, suffering a painful and serious injury. Mr. Nipp stepped in a hole and his ankle turned, causing the hurt. He was thrown down when his ankle was sprained and afterwards fainted from the pain. He has been confined to his bed for several days and is unable to tell when he will be able to return home. Mr. Nipp was one of the witnesses in a trial recently and was unable to come from the northern summer resort.

VERY PECULIAR IS COINCIDENCE

Former Rushville Boy Picks up an F. B. Johnson Soda Check in Salt Lake City.

IT IS LIKE A SMILE FROM HOME

F. B. Johnson received a postal card from Albert Fleehart this morning, stating that he had picked up one of Johnson's cigar and soda checks on Second street in Salt Lake City. The coincidence is rather marvelous in the mere fact that it should be an old Rushville boy who should pick up the check in a city so far away from Rushville and in a city where there are so few Rushville people. Mr. Fleehart states that the check was like a smile from home and that he is going to carry the little piece of aluminum as a pocket piece, for he feels certain that the article that brought about such a peculiar happening will always be conducive to good luck.

TAME SQUIRRELS REGAIN PROTECTION

City Council Discuss Enforcement of Several Ordinances and Consider Venders' and Peddlers' License.

REGULAR BILLS ARE ALLOWED

Nothing of importance was brought up before the city solons at their regular bi-monthly meeting at the city building last night. There was some discussion as to the peddlers and venders ordinance, which the Merchants' Association wish to have made, but nothing definite was done.

The complaints about low awnings, low limbs of trees and weeds were referred to a committee who will investigate the conditions before any action is taken.

The squirrel ordinance in regard to shooting tame squirrels in the city park will from now on be rigidly enforced.

A great deal of discussion regarding a number of municipal accessories was indulged in, but no definite action was taken concerning any of them. After allowing regular bills the council adjourned at ten o'clock.

ASKS FOR NEW TRIAL.

Warren P. Elder, the defendant in a contract suit, who lost the case in the Shelby circuit court where it was sent on a change of venue from the local court, has asked for a new trial. The motion was argued in the Shelbyville court yesterday.

SAID THAT MAN SWORE AT HER

Miss Ardelle Davis Filed an Affidavit Against James West For Use of Profane Language.

PLEADED GUILTY TO CHARGE

Stated That on One Occasion Large
Rock Hit Her—West
Paid $12.75.

Charging that she could not pass the house without being sworn at, Miss Ardelle Davis, the daughter of William Davis of North Maple street, filed an affidavit against James West of West Tenth street in Squire James Kratzer's court yesterday. West appeared before Squire Kratzer last night and pleaded guilty to the charge. He was fined three dollars and costs for the use of profane language by the squire, which amounted all together to twelve dollars and seventy-five cents.

Miss Davis lives in North Maple street and must pass the West home in coming down to the business district. She told the squire that she had suffered intolerable things from the hands of West and that she had reached the point where she must object. She said that she could not pass the house, if West was out on the porch, without hearing profane language, meant for her ears. The use of profane language was the charge which Miss Davis preferred against West and the one to which he pleaded guilty and paid a fine for.

Miss Davis recited to the squire instances when she passed the house and West threw stones at her. She stated that on one occasion one large rock hit her and at the same time West swore violently at her. West told the squire that he did not intend to hit her with a stone on that particular occasion, but was throwing at a dog.

Neighbors in the vicinity of the West home have complained of the actions of West and his use of obscene and profane language. One man living in that vicinity says that his daughter was passing the West home one day recently and that a boy was encouraged to throw a rock at her by a member of the West family. The rock, he said, passed through the parasol which she was carrying and ruined it.

REMEMBERS BLOODY DAY

Connersville Marshal Arrested Rushville Men 20 Years Ago.

Charley Lewis is celebrating in a reminiscent way, an event that occurred just 20 years ago today, says the Connersville News. It was on the fifth day of July, 1890, he says, while he was city marshal, that he and Bert Caldwell undertook the arrest of two men, Joyce and Egan of Rushville. After a hard struggle they got their men to the court house when they broke away. The arrest had to be made over again and Charley and his assistant got a lot of punishment and blood flowed freely on both sides. But when the Rushville men finally had to settle for their fun it took a good sized pile of money to pay their fines.

FUNERAL HELD TODAY.

MAKING GOOD

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good"; and Dr. Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards. A good, honest square-deal medicine of known composition is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is as good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for. Don't buy

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments.

It makes weak women strong, sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago.

As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy.

Quite a number from this vicinity took in the Fourth at Knightstown.

Charles Longfellow and wife and Ruby Bales attended the ball at Fairmouth Monday night.

Mrs. John Knecht and son of Rushville visited her parents last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Miles entertained in honor of their son Ralph, who is home from Purdue last Thursday night with a barn dance. About two hundred people were present and a most delightful time was had. The music was furnished by Garland Newkirk and sister Myra.

Herman Miller and wife, who are soon to be residents of our vicinity were calling on B. F. Martin and family and transacting business at their farm northwest of here July 4th.

Fred Newman of Richmond, B. F. Martin, Fred Lightfoot and Roy Smith attended the auto races at Indianapolis Monday.

WHAT TO WRITE IS THE PUZZLE

Democrats Open Publicity Bureau to Keep Party Secrets.

DON'T DARE DISCUSS ISSUES

Writers For Democratic Press at Loss For Texts—Liquor Issue Live Wire, and Tariff Presents Knotty Points—Advisory Board Wrestles With Problem Without Success—Taggart Controls Bureau but Can't Furnish Safe Dope.

[Indianapolis Correspondence.]

The Democratic state central committee has chosen its publicity bureau superintendent in the person of Guernsey Van Riper, recently city editor of the Indianapolis Star. It is understood Mr. Van Riper is to be paid $60 per week during the campaign. He is to be "advised" in matters of policy by State Chairman Stokes Jackson, Sam Ralston, of Lebanon, George Beebe of Anderson, and Ed. G. Hoffman, of Fort Wayne. Mr. Hoffman will represent Steve Fleming and the Tom Marshall interests. He will be tremendously in the minority. All the other men who are to "advise" the publicity bureau, are strong Taggart followers.

The funds for conducting the publicity bureau are to be provided via Tom Taggart, Joe Fanning, Gus Belmont and the others, from sources such as fed the Democratic party cause in the days of A. B. Parker. This is the cheering word sent forth by the Taggart workers, and it is probably true, in some degree.

It will take some time for Superintendent Van Riper and his helpers to square away and get down to work. The advisory committee has the publicity bureau on its hands and ready for work. But the advisory committee of Democrats does not know what to say to Indiana voters on the vital issues.

It is significant of the sure grip Tom Taggart keeps on the Democratic editors that the editors, though met at French Lick to organize their press bureau, left the matter over to be done at a Denison hotel secret caucus, under guidance of Taggart, himself, and according to his own plans.

It is known that the conference discussed ways and means of presenting the issues of the day to the people, and it is known further that the advisers to the publicity bureau adjourned without reaching any sort of conclusion as to methods or arguments. Especially was the meeting topsy-turvy on the liquor question. Sam Ralston, of Lebanon, being called on the carpet for permitting Boone county Democrats to pass resolutions repudiating the Democratic state platform, was forced to acknowledge that he was utterly powerless to block local sentiment as to existing temperance law. Stokes Jackson was free to admit that he had been unable to rally Hancock county Democrats for the state platform.

How to stand on the Taggartized state platform, and from that position appeal with any hope of success to the rank and file of Democrats, is the big puzzle confronting the Democratic publicity bureau.

It has been found that it will be disastrous to attack existing liquor laws.

The tariff question presents serious difficulties to Democrats this year. They talk of the high cost of living, but they do not dare to go to the Indiana farmer with arguments against good prices for products of the farm. The state platform straddled the issue of protection, and campaign demands for a "tariff for revenue only" will be quickly met by the words of the Democratic platform, which call for a "tariff for public purposes," which is an entirely different thing.

The bureau cannot whoop things up for Tom Marshall, for that might injure Harmon and enlarge the Marshall presidential boomlet. So there you are. Pending a decision as to campaign policy, it may be expected that the Marshall administration will be "played up" more or less for awhile.

REMEMBERS BENEFACTOR.

George W. Duncan, just named to be postmaster at Greenfield, twenty-five years ago appointed W. O. Barnard deputy prosecutor for Henry county. Mr. Duncan then was prosecutor for Hancock and Henry. He gave Mr. Barnard a start. Now Mr. Barnard, risen to be a member of congress, appoints his old time friend and helper to a postoffice. There is something pleasing and commendable in this sort of remembrance.

HOOSIER PROMOTED.

Charles F. Jones, of Brooksville, Ind., has been appointed to a place as solicitor in the department of justice at Washington, D. C. Mr. Jones has been representing the United States before the Spanish Treaty Claims commission, and there saved the government some $63,000,000. Which is a record worth considering, especially when made by a Hoosier Republican.

Hoosier Goes to Washington

Ernest Elkin of Bowling Green, Ind., has gone to Washington to take a place in the census department.

MORE TROUBLE SEEMS LIKELY

The "Stampede" Strike Clause May Cause Hitch.

BOTH SIDES ARE DETERMINED

The Joint Conference of Miners and Operators Which Will Meet at Terre Haute Tomorrow Is Confronted With a Problem Which Threatens to Lead to the Closing of the Mines Unless Wise Counsel Prevails.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 6.—When the Indiana operators and miners meet in joint conference tomorrow the first issue will be whether or not the clause in the wage contract imposing a fine of $1 a day on miners who go out on a "stampede" local strike—a strike without calling into play the arbitration plan that has been in use for several years, shall be retained. The contract has been completed by a joint committee, with the exception of this clause, which the miners on the committee say they will never accept. The convention of six weeks ago voted unanimously against it, and the temporary working agreement did not contain the clause. The operators at the time proposed that the clause was "suspended," but the miners insisted on the word "eliminated," and this is their attitude toward the pending permanent agreement. It is understood that the officials of the miners wanted the mines to run for a few weeks without a fine clause, to prove that it was not needed, and that the men would not go on stampede strikes. The operators also admit that they have been in no hurry to bring about the joint conference, because stampede strikes were occurring with such frequency that they felt they were proving the need of the clause. There have been twenty-two of these strikes in the forty-two working days under the temporary agreement. In almost every instance the miners' officials have been unable to control the men.

Should the miners' convention refuse to agree to the clause, the operators will announce that the temporary agreement is at an end. Then the men will insist that, as the temporary agreement reads that it is to continue until a permanent contract is made, it must so continue, but the operators will take the ground that when the two sides fail to agree on a permanent contract the temporary one becomes extinct; that the word "temporary" itself means that it is not to run two years.

The operators say they will shut down their mines unless the men agree to the fine clause.

INDIANA TRAGEDY

Young Musician at West Baden Shot After a Few Words.

West Baden, Ind., July 6.—Bill Ragles, a young itinerant musician, while returning from the picnic grounds at this place, met Eb Ables, aged fifty years, who had with him his two children, aged nine and eleven, on a walk within a hundred yards of the West Baden Springs hotel. They had a few words and Ragles shot him through the heart, Ables dying in a few minutes.

There had been some differences between the two. Ragles was arrested and taken to the county jail.

Boy Blinded by Firecracker.

Shelbyville, Ind., July 6.—Russell Parrish, aged ten, refilled a large cannon cracker and when it failed to explode promptly he began blowing into it to force the powder out. There was still a spark there and it ignited the powder. A blaze shot up in his face and he will lose his eyesight.

The Patrons Are Willing.

Silver Lake, Ind., July 6.—Rural carriers out of this place are planning to make their trips after night during the hot summer months, starting from the office about 6 o'clock in the evening. The patrons on the routes are heartily in favor of the plan.

Sought Death in Lonely Spot.

Valparaiso, Ind., July 6.—The body of an unidentified man was found hanging in the woods near Chesterton. It probably had been hanging three weeks and was badly decomposed. It is supposed that the man committed suicide.

Victim of Lightning.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 6.—Ezekiel Fields, a farm employe, was found dead in a field south of here, near a tent he occupied with several of his children. Coroner Leavitt found that he had been struck by lightning.

He Took It to Heart.

Marion, Ind., July 6.—Jilted by a girl who it is said had encouraged his attentions, William Belt swallowed poison on the doorstep of his sweetheart's home and lies in a critical condition in the hospital.

Indiana Elks to Meet.

South Bend, Ind., July 6.—South Bend is making elaborate preparations for the State Reunion association of B. P. O. Elks, which will take place here for three days, beginning tomorrow.

SENATOR BEVERIDGE QUITE OPTIMISTIC

Says Indiana Will Be Republican by 50,000.

Washington, July 6.—Senator Beveridge of Indiana bobbed in town yesterday, remained a minute or two, and then bobbed out again. Mr. Beveridge is on his way to Dublin, N. H., where he will spend the summer with his family. Beveridge is full of hope and optimism, especially about Beveridge. He figures the Republicans will carry Indiana this fall by 50,000.

"There is nothing to it," said Mr. Beveridge. "The old state will come around this year. The croakers may croak to their hearts' content, but Indiana will be safely Republican—I think it is conservative to say that we shall win by a majority of 50,000."

Beveridge was asked if it was his purpose to visit Oyster Bay on his way north. He dodged the question at first, but when pressed for an answer replied in the negative.

PRESSING CHARGES

Baumgarten Bankruptcy Case Taken Into Federal Court.

Cincinnati, July 6.—Fraud, the concealment of about $100,000 assets, the swearing of numerous false oaths and the failure to keep records of transactions involving over half a million dollars—these are the charges made against David L. Baumgarten, European and American syndicate promoter of this city.

The allegations appear in a document filed in the United States court containing specifications why it is declared Baumgarten should not be released from bankruptcy.

DYNAMITERS AT WORK

Home of Illinois Preacher Damaged by Miscreants.

Mattoon, Ill., July 6.—The home of the Rev. R. B. Fisher of Neoga, who has made numerous attacks against bootleggers and gamblers from his pulpit, was dynamited. A bomb which was placed beneath the dwelling tore a large hole in the earth in one corner of the house and shattered every window. The Rev. Mr. Fisher and members of his family, who were in bed at the time, were uninjured. There is no clue to the dynamiters.

Dr. Hyde Sentenced.

Kansas City, July 6.—Dr. B. C. Hyde, convicted of having poisoned Colonel Thomas H. Swope, the millionaire philanthropist, was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor by Judge Lathaw. An appeal to the state supreme court was filed by Hyde's attorney, and until it is taken up by the higher court the prisoner will remain in the county jail here.

Says He Found Cook's Records.

Colorado Springs, Col., July 6.—P. J. Carrigan, an intelligent seaman and placer miner from Alaska, who is here, declares that he himself has ascended Mt. McKinley and found the copper tube and records left by Dr. Cook. After examining the records and American flag in the tube, Carrigan restored it to the niche in the boulder where it was found.

RACE FRICTION FOLLOWS FIGHT

Further Trouble Reported Throughout the South.

NEW ORLEANS BADLY STIRRED

Numerous Riots Were Reported Despite Efforts to Prevent Stimulation of Race Feeling, and Some Loss of Life Attended the Outbreaks—Rioting at Clarksburg Was of an Aggressive Character and Troops May Be Called Out.

New Orleans, July 6.—As was expected, the Jeffries-Johnson fight and its termination caused a great deal of racial friction here, several riots and some loss of life. The negroes kept to themselves during the day and the bulletins were not given out to mixed audiences. Joe Williams, Emile Hampson and Jim Lee are at the Charity hospital, having been shot by two young white men. The latter met the negroes on the street and remarked that as Johnson had whipped a white man, they proposed to kill every negro they met, and then opened fire, shooting at the negroes, and then took to flight when the negroes of the neighborhood poured from houses. Ellis Washington, a negro, was badly beaten by a number of white men who were angry over Jeff's defeat. John Hudson, a white boy, was badly slashed by a negro for shouting for Jeffries, and a dozen negroes were locked up for disorderly conduct growing out of the prize fight. In a fight between whites and negroes at Alsatia and Enoka, in Madison parish, L. E. Roberts, a white man, and Henry Anderson, a negro, were killed and two other negroes mortally wounded.

Washington Was Stirred Up.

Washington, July 6.—The police courts in Washington were crowded Tuesday with white and negro prisoners in more or less battered condition as the result of fights which broke out following the announcement that Johnson had whipped Jeff. Cuts on the head, stab wounds on the body, blackened eyes and other injuries were sustained by the victims of the exciting and strenuous night. The most serious affray was one in which Private Scott of Battery C, Third artillery, stationed at Fort Hunt, was a victim. He was on his way home in a streetcar, and in attempting to disarm a negro who was brandishing a razor, was perhaps fatally slashed in the abdomen. His assailant escaped.

The Situation in West Virginia.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 6.—Rioting between whites and blacks was renewed Tuesday, and all day long there were encounters between a mob of several hundred white men and negroes. Patrick McGanna, white, was injured so severely that he may die. A white man named Jordan was beaten and a mob of whites quickly formed, bent on lynching the disturbing negroes, who escaped the vengeance of the mob by hiding. The police seem powerless to stop the disorder, and if it continues state troops will be called for. The situation is critical and more trouble is anticipated.

A Texas Lynching.

Corsicana, Tex., July 6.—A negro entered the home of Hub Bailey, a merchant at Rodini, and brandishing a knife, threatened Mrs. Bailey, a bride of three months, who grappled with him, took the weapon and forced the negro to flee. Poses caught the fugitive and hanged him.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Secretary of War J. M. Dickinson and party, enroute around the world, have arrived at Honolulu.

George Q. Biegler, auditor of the American National bank at Indianapolis, is to be appointed a national bank examiner.

Mrs. Eliza Haverly, widow of Colonel Jack Haverly, the best-known of all the old-time minstrel men, is dead at New York.

Spurned by the girl he loved, Edward Weiss of Detroit shot and killed Gertrude Lubowitz and turned the weapon on himself. He is dying.

A bulletin just issued by the Illinois state board of agriculture giving the condition of the crops on June 20 shows corn to be in poor condition.

One person was killed and thirty seriously injured, two of them probably fatally, when a bridge collapsed during a Fourth of July celebration at Utica, Ill.

Disastrous floods are reported from localities south of Monterey, Mexico. The town of Venada was almost destroyed and four persons were drowned.

The battle standard of the Emperor Montezuma, carried by the Aztec king in the battle with the invading Spaniards under Cortez in 1502, has been found in the museum of natural history in Vienna.

The "sane Fourth" as observed in many cities cut down the total deaths throughout the country from fireworks and firearms. The deaths thus far reported number 35; last year, 48. The injured total 2,200; last year, 2,700.

TAVENER HIRED BY THE TRUSTS

"Free" Letters From Washington Come Through Oelrichs.

TAGGART NOT THE REAL ANGEL

Promoters of "Harmon and Harmony" Campaign, Working Through Taggart and His Indiana Machine, Put Over Smooth Trick on Behalf of Biggest of All Federated Combines.

Washington, July 5.—Another Tom Taggart fairy tale is exploded. Mr. Taggart is not the fairy godfather of Indiana Democratic editors, after all. Those C. H. Tavenor Washington letters, sent "free" to one hundred and fifty Democratic newspapers in Indiana, for the last ten weeks, are paid for by "men higher up."

Mr. Taggart bows and smiles, and takes unctious to himself for donating a thing of large value to his editorial followers. But if the truth must be known, the international shipping trust, organized to oppose progressive legislation affecting rates, is the power behind Tavenor, and it is the shipping trust which "pays the freight" on those "Harmon and Harmony" Washington letters which Taggart's state central committee has just ordered to be continued during the Indiana state campaign.

Associated with the international shipping trust are the great steel corporation, the railroad combines, the lumber combine, the meat packers, the harvester trust, the sugar trust and a few others. Naturally, a publicity bureau backed by such powerful interests, is "in funds," and generous.

A certain rich man named Herman Oelrichs, onetime treasurer of the Democratic national committee, at a time when Tom Taggart was national chairman, and when Alton B. Parker was a candidate for president, is head of the international shipping trust, and it was Oelrichs, and not Tom Taggart, who put C. H. Tavenor in charge of the "Harmon and Harmony" publicity bureau at Washington. It is to Oelrichs and not to Tom Taggart that the Democratic editors owe their "free service."

Now the Taggart state central committee has added its own publicity bureau to the "Harmon and Harmony," shipping trust annex at Washington. It is announced with much flourish that the head of the Indiana bureau of Democratic publicity is to be paid $60 a week, and that many thousands will be spent. It will occur to the plain Indiana voter to ask if the shipping trust is paying for the Indiana bureau as well as for the Washington work.

It is calculated that no fewer than 85,000 people spend their lives on the canal boats and barges of England alone.

The consensus of expert sporting opinion, expressed at Reno, is to the effect that the Jeffries-Johnson fight was probably the last prize fight in this country. Of course there will always be a few minor fights and limited round affairs will continue to be pulled off. But those American millionaires who spent days and weeks eagerly absorbing the dope from San Francisco and Reno, and who awaited the final crisis with greater anxiety than they ever felt when the count of the election returns was to determine whether the next administration was to be Democratic or Republican will never again experience the old sensation and the familiar thrills of the pugilistic fan. It is a chapter that is closed. The prize fighting game is over.

The Indianapolis Sun, the ultra insurgent organ of the insurgents in this neck of the woods, says editorially:

"If Taft wants peace and harmony and party success, let him come into Indiana and urge the re-election of Beveridge, the regularly endorsed candidate of the Republican party of this State.

"If Watson wants harmony, let him take the stump and urge the re-election of Beveridge and work for it, and the same applies to Hemenway and Durbin and others of the crowd who are preaching harmony and lighting firebrands. * * *

"What are they going to do about it? Do they want a fight or do they want harmony? They can have either and have a plenty while they are getting."

Harmony is usually the result of a "give and take" policy on the part of all parties concerned. If Indiana insurgents really want harmony, let them come off their high horse and at least meet the regulars half way. They can not expect harmony and a successful campaign as long as they remain defiant.

Practically every important provision of the Republican platform has been fulfilled by the late congress and in spite of the reports from the Democratic newspapers, the public realizes. It would indeed have been a notable event in the history of politics had there been no adverse criticism from the party of the minority, as it is by this means that it hopes to dethrone the party having the majority of members.

In this campaign, as in others, it will be seen that criticism has no weight, whatever, unless founded upon facts. Many of the measures which have been enacted and which were attacked by the Democrats, will be found by due trial, to be value and benefit to the public, and undeserving of unjust criticism which has been passed for the sole purposes of political gain. Before an act of congress is condemned it should be remembered that the laws are general and have within their scope the entire country and are not enacted for any section or State. Many of the new measures have already been tried and found worthy of commendation. Others will undergo the wisdom of enacting such legislation.

The National Clothiers' Association has announced that it must increase the price of $12 suits by $3 and add $5 to the price of a $20 suit. It gives out that these increases are due to the tariff. This is both lying and stealing.

The cloth in a $12 suit amounts to only $3, and the cloth in a $20 suit to $5. That is the average cost of all the goods that go into such a suit. The tariff on the wool amounts to 75 cents on the $12 suit and to $1.25 on the $20 suit. And this tariff has been in existence for twelve years, without change, no change having been made in the last revision of the tariff.

How can they say that the Payne-Aldrich bill warrants such increases when the duties remained the same as they have been for a dozen years past?

And if the whole of the tariff were added to the price of clothing it could make only 75 cents difference on a $12 suit and $1.25 on a $20 suit. But in each case the manufacturers talk about adding four times the total amount of tariff.

This illustration is important to show what mysterious things happen under the excuse of the tariff. Instead of being criticised for attempting to make such increases, the politicians defend the clothing makers on the theory that they are serving a point against the tariff bill. So every politician becomes a defender of an unwarranted increase on the part of the makers of clothing. And that's politics. In short, when they say that they make the increase on account of the tariff they are both lying and stealing—the tariff makes no such practice excusable.

EDITORIALETTES.

It's perfectly proper for the weather man to get "cold feet" once in a while and also for him to "mix his drinks."

Perhaps the usual story about "taking the little ones to the circus, didn't care to go myself" are now in order.

They say that it is very fortunate that two Sundays in one week do not come more than once a year, or some people could not stand it.

Of all the sad tidings that was ever ticked over the wire, this is the worst, especially for those who did not have the price to journey to Reno. The prize fight moving pictures may not be shown.

Those people who persist in ringing when they know they have an imperfect connection and the wrong number, what is strong enough punishment for them? Any suggestions to make?

Need not take any offense at the above wheeze, even if you were guilty of that very thing today.

After the Fourth, the next thing is "Big Wednesday."

And then there's the circus which must be taken into consideration, too. Save a little money for that.

The title of an old farce was "Too Much Johnson," but today the title can be applied to the greatest tragedy of the sporting world.

Little Known Facts About Month of July

It Was Named for Julius Caesar and Was Once Fifth Month in the Year—Regarded With Superstition by Romans

July was originally the fifth month of the old Roman year and was thence denominated Quintilis. In the Alban calendar, it has a complement of 36 days. Romulus reduced it to 31 days and Numa to 30 days, at which it stood for centuries. This month, which chanced to be the natal month of the great Julius Caesar, who reformed the almanac, was after his death named July in his honor by Mark Anthony. "This month," as an old chronicle says, "was selected for his honary distinction, when the sun was generally most potent, the more effectually to denote that Julius was the emperor of the world, and therefore the appropriate leader of one-half of the year." July was called the "hay month" by the Saxons because with them it was the time of the hay harvest. They also called it meadow month, the meadows then being in bloom.

Of course, in speaking of the heat of this month the northern hemisphere only is taken into consideration, the zones of temperature south of the equator being unknown to the ancients. In the northern hemisphere, July is rated as the warmest month of the year, though the sun has then begun his southern march from the tropic of Cancer.

The heat of this month led to a superstition among the Romans. They conceived that this warmth and the disease and other calamities following from it were somehow connected with the rising and setting of the star Canicula, the Little Dog star, in coincidence with the sun. They accordingly conferred the name of "dog days" on the period between the 3d of July and the 11th of August. The baselessness of this superstition has been shown for Canicula does not now rise in coincidence with the sun till the latter part of August, while the days between July 3 and August 11 are what they have ever been. Astronomers remark that the rising of Canicula is getting later and later in all latitudes, and if the old superstition is to be retained the Dog Star may in time come to be charged with bringing frost and snow. Yet the "dog days" continue to be a popular phrase, probably with a lingering regard for the old notion as much as from a consideration of the effect of extreme heat upon dog flesh and blood.

Henry Watterson on Newspapers

Editor Henry Watterson contributes an interesting chapter to the newspaper, its faults, virtues and possibilities, that has been carried on for some time in the Atlantic Monthly—heretofore by writers who are not newspaper men, says the Indianapolis Star.

Like all practical men in the business of newspaper making, Mr. Watterson disagrees with the idea advanced by Prof. Ross, one of the writers in question, and entertained by many theorists, that the endowment of a newspaper would solve the vexing problems of the press. He believes that such a paper would have to be run much as a well conducted paper is now operated. It would not alter the prevailing notion of what constitutes news, and would have to give the news or have no readers. Like other papers, too, it would, on occasion, find it necessary to perform the act which Prof. Ross finds such a sin in the press, namely, to suppress news; as, for example, facts which, if published, would create or increase a financial panic, and so injure the community. He quotes a fellow editor as saying: "There is no question that to the wilful efforts of the newspapers as a body to allay public fear and to restore business confidence is to be credited the short duration and comparative mildness of the last financial disaster." That this is true no well-informed newspaper or business man will deny.

The endowed newspaper, pictured as the ideal paper, would have to be run by a board of governors, filled in turn by representatives of the various uplift societies enumerated by Prof. Ross, would, says Mr. Watterson, "blow hot and blow cold, would have no consistent policy or principles, and would be from the beginning engaged in a policy of newspaper suppression to suit the hobby riders who happened to be for the moment in control." He believes, as every experienced newspaper man must, that a paper to be successful must have an individual head. A directing mind and hand must have their firm grip upon the tiller ropes which extend from the editorial room to the composing room, from the composing room to the press room and from the press room to the breakfast table." He sees no reason why this directing head should not also control the business end of the paper. "Disinterestedness, unselfish devotion to the public interest," he says, "is the soul of true journalism as of true statesmanship; and this is as likely to proceed from the counting room as from the editorial room; only, the business manager must be a journalist."

The day of personal journalism is over, declares Mr. Watterson, in the sense of one man dominating his paper that it seems to exist mainly to glorify him. There will never again be a Greeley, a Raymond or a Dana playing the role of "star" and personally exploited by their papers. It is the day of impersonal journalism, he says. While this is true in a sense, there is no reason why men may not again dominate and be the central figures of their respective papers; no reason why editors of strong individuality should not force themselves on public attention as individuals, rather than as impersonal influences behind the scenes. Mr. Watterson is himself a notable illustration in this line. His paper is not made subordinate to him, as was done for the editors in the other cases mentioned, but he is the distinctive force on it, and is recognized as an individual, not an impersonal force. Men of this class have not been numerous in the editorial field at any time, but they are as likely to arise in the future as in the past. Individualism can not be suppressed in the newspaper field any more than in commercial circles when it has strength and vitality.

The No-Breakfast Plan

It is well to start with a proposition upon which we are all agreed. And so I'll give you this: Man's body is fed by food, says Elbert Hubbard.

No one you ever saw could get along without eating, excepting for a few days. When the digestive apparatus is out of order the whole man suffers; and especially is he unreliable and incapable mentally. The brain and stomach seem to work in close sympathy.

And, while food is a primal necessity, yet the fact is, most people eat much more than they require, and a goodly degree of their life's energy is taken up getting rid of the surplus.

So sternly has this truth been impressed upon certain people that they have said: "Yes, true enough, we will just go without one meal—we will cut out breakfast."

As a curative measure in disease, the fast often is a positive force for good. But for the normal person, accustomed to three meals a day, a habit pretty well fixed in the race, the no-breakfast plan should not be attempted.

Food is a fuel, and, also is a stimulant. Breakfast is a cosmic spark. The very act of eating at certain fixed periods starts the life juices of the body. Breakfast awakens the whole digestive tract, and makes elimination natural.

To do away with breakfast is to have some one steal your spark plug. You will live until noon, all right, but that is not enough. Man is not made merely to "pull through." We are made for useful activity—for work. Our business is to transform chaos into cosmos and make this world into a garden, where safety, comfort, kindness and love abound.

The no-breakfast plan tends to retard and discourage the peristaltic action of the bowels. Hence, it makes for sluggishness. The no-breakfast candidate will take up the Beecham habit a little later. Also, he is aware that he has had no breakfast. He is just waiting around until noon, and then he will eat at one meal as much as the normal person eats at two.

Breakfast should be a very moderate repast; then you want to omit a meal, leave out lunch and eat your substantial meal at night, when the days work is done.

Habit is second nature; that is to say if you accustom yourself to a certain line of conduct you will be compelled to continue it though it kill you. The mental attitude of most people is the result of bad habits acquired in youth. Bad habits cling with a persistence fully as strong as good ones.

For instance, the cigarette or the strong drink habit. The coffee, meat and pancake breakfast is a habit with many people. People who have heartburn, bad breath, colds, throbbing at the stomach, pain in the side, headache, are all our meat-breakfast friends—there are no exceptions.

All these pleasant symptoms are the result of food poisoning. The person has stowed his hold with such a finely assorted cargo of indigestibles that nature panes perplexed. Fermentation follows, and the individual is but an animated garbage can.

An enlightened people who prize health should make it a rule to eat at least one meal a day without meat, and two may be better.

If we could acquire the habit of health through temperate living, the century run would be the rule and not the rare exception. As it is most men die at a time when they are just becoming fitted to live.

No Bar on Kissing

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the government chemist, who is a confirmed bachelor, in an interview in the Washington Post dealt a solar plexus blow to the Anti-Kissing league which is said to be gaining converts by the hundreds.

"A society for the prevention of kissing," Dr. Wiley says, "is nothing less than a society for the prevention of pleasure."

"Just imagine a kissless courtship," he continued. "Can you contemplate a more uninteresting predicament? I certainly would like to get one peep at the members of an organization which approves of such a thing."

"While I long since have retired from the spooning business, I still have a memory and whenever anyone quotes me as saying that I believe that the kissing habit should be abolished you can put it down that I have been misquoted."

"I have now reached that stage when I confine my kissing entirely to relatives and babies, but that is not because I fear the ill effects of disease transmission from mouth to mouth."

"Take a darkened nook on a moonlight night with the beams playing around a couple idly swinging in a hammock. Let the Anti-Kissing society get to work in such a case and see what happens. It would not be long before the pair would shift their position and find a more secluded spot. You can't keep it down, and there's no use trying, and so long as good red blood courses through the veins of the American youth and the adults and the aged, too, so far as that is concerned, that delightful sensation which is experienced when lips touch and arms clasp and two hearts beat as one will continue to exist."

Renew Rate Probe

The railroad Commissioners of Indiana on account of agitation over the State regarding the new freight tariffs filed recently and the general unsettled condition of the rate question, decided to probe the class rate question thoroughly as it affects Indiana. The commission will revive an inquiry concerning class rates begun in 1907. In a ruling handed down May 25, 1908, the commission made no order concerning class rates, but retained jurisdiction in the case, thus permitting the inquiry to be resumed at any time. The various railway companies handling freight to or from Indianapolis were notified that the commission will have a hearing in the class rate inquiry July 8th.

The task of investigating the rates is an arduous one, as more than 250 different schedules, most of them containing thousands of items, have been filed within the last two weeks. The inquiry will include an investigation of the following questions: (1) Are the class rates from Indianapolis to points in this State and from points in this State to Indianapolis excessive? (2) Do such rates unjustly discriminate against persons or localities? (3) Do such rates need revision and modification? (4) Are such rates in all cases where the traffic is competitive now relatively fair and indiscriminate when considered in connection with rates on classified traffic from points without the State of Indiana to points within the State, and are such rates relatively fair and indiscriminate when compared with rates from points in Indiana to points without the State? (5) Any other question collateral to or connected with or essential to a proper understanding and adjustment of the preceding subjects of investigation.

The original hearing in the case, beginning in 1907, consumed much time, this being one of the famous cases of Railroad Commission history. The fact that investigations showed to the commission that the railways were suffering considerably from the panic that year was the cause assigned in the ruling of the commission for not issuing an order at that time.

An Expert's Opinion of Skin Disease.

A prominent, national expert on skin diseases whose name you are familiar with says that in all his scientific experience he has never found so hard a disease to conquer as Eczema. Yet he does not hesitate to recommend ZEMO as a most successful remedy for the treatment of Eczema, itching skin disease, dandruff, pimples, blackheads and all other diseases of the skin and scalp. He says that not only do its curative qualities make it popular but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A great improvement over the old style greasy salves and lotions which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZEMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. Mr. F. E. Wolcott will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZEMO and a booklet which explains in simple language all about skin disease and how to cure yourself at home with ZEMO.

On a Lonely Road Near K'town

"After a week of annoyance, which bordered too closely upon the serious to be comfortable, Bob Crabbs yesterday made arrangements to settle a claim against him by Vince Sansome, an Indianapolis Italian fruit vender. Bob's auto and the foreigner's peach wagon met on a lonely road near Knightstown a week ago Thursday night. The story has several humorous features which, however, do not appeal strongly to Bob.

"Taking Morrill Bunch, Bob drove to Anderson and there was joined by Carl East and wife and two young ladies for a trip to Indianapolis. All went well until the return trip somewhere near Knightstown when the car struck amidst a wagon that suddenly loomed up out of the darkness in the middle of the highway. A yell told the auto party that some one was agitated by the collision and soon a valuable and excited Italian's voice was heard. Bob drove on to Knightstown and discovered that peaches were in all parts of the car, two boxes of the fruit being on the radiator which was so badly broken that it is being replaced.

"Coming home, Bob had been in town but a short time when a constable showed up from Knightstown, having secured Bob's car number from the colored night marshal of the town who, unobserved, had taken the number, seeing from the appearances of the machine that some mishap had occurred. The constable demanded settlement in the sum of $50 but Bob laughed at him, saying he had suffered much damage, and more, as the Italian had. The constable informed Sansome, who kept the wires hot thereafter for several days insisting on a settlement while the constable hung around, each day's stay adding to the amount requested for a settlement until finally the sum desired reached $250. Bob, in the interim, had ascertained that the Italian was asleep on the wagon seat and was letting the horse go along as best it could, thus showing the Italian was guilty of as much negligence and was equally as liable as Crabbs himself.

"The constable caused a charge of petit larceny to be brought against Crabbs, alleging that theft consisted in the fact that two boxes of peaches, discovered after the wreck by Crabbs on his car, were stolen. Bob says the Italian thought he saw a chance to clean up a little money and refused to listen to the exorbitant demands. Yesterday Policeman Jesse White went to Indianapolis to offer a reasonable amount to Sansome for the damage done him in Bob's behalf. If the money is declined, Sansome will have to whistle hereafter for a settlement or fight it out in court. Bob says he refuses to be held up."

The Stowaway

By LOUIS TRACY

Author of the "Pillar of Light,"
"The Wings of the Morning" and "The Captain of the Kansas."

Copyright, 1909, by Edward J. Clode

Throwing aside the rags which covered him, he tried to rise. Philip caught a glimpse of the uniform, the sheen of the naked sword. He was about to tear himself from Iris' clasp and spring at this new enemy when the Brazilian spoke.

"Mil diabos!" he cried in a rage. "This cursed Inglez still lives, and here am I posing before him like an old hag!"

His voice alone saved him from being plinned to the floor by a man who had adopted no light measures with others of his countrymen during the past half hour, as the dented gun barrel minus its stock well showed. But the captain's mortified fury helped to restore Philip's sanity. Lifting Iris' glowing face to his own, he whispered:

"Tell me, sweetheart, how comes it that our Brazilian friend is here?"

"He ran away when some shots were fired," which was rather unfair of Iris. "He said the launch had been sunk by a man-of-war."

"But he is wrong. I saw no man-of-war. We captured the launch. By this time she is well out at sea. Unfortunately Marcel was killed and Domingo badly wounded. There was no one to come for you, so I jumped overboard and swam ashore. I had to fight my way here, and it will soon be known that there are some of us left on the island. I thought that perhaps I might take you back to the Grand-pere cavern. These people may give us food. I have some few sovereigns in my pocket."

"Oh, yes, yes!" She was excited now and radiantly happy. "Of course Captain San Benavides must accompany us. He says the soldiers will shoot him if they capture him. I, too, have money. Let me ask him to explain matters to this dear woman and her daughter. They have been more than kind to me already."

She turned to the sulky San Benavides and told him what Hozier had suggested. He brightened at that and began a voluble speech to Luisa Gomez. Interrupting himself, he inquired in French how Hozier proposed to reach the rock.

"On a catamaran. There are two on the beach, and I can handle one of them all right," said Philip. "But what is this yarn of a warship? When last I sighted the launch she was standing out of the harbor, and the first clouds of the storm helped to screen her from the citadel."

Iris interpreted. San Benavides repeated his story of the rockets. In her present tumult the girl forgot the touch of realism with regard to the firing that he had heard. Certainly there was a good deal of promiscuous rifle shooting after the departure of the launch, but warships use cannon to enforce their demands, and the boom of a big gun had not woken the echoes of Fernando Noronha that night. Philip deemed the present no time for argument. He despised San Benavides and gave no credence to him. Just now the Brazilian was an evil that must be endured.

Luisa Gomez promised to help in every possible way. Her eyes sparkled at the sight of gold, but the poor woman would have assisted them out of sheer pity. Nevertheless the gift of a couple of sovereigns, backed by the promise of many more if her husband devoted himself to their service, spurred her to a frenzy of activity.

There was not a moment to be lost. The squall had spent itself, and a peep through the chinks of the door showed that the moon would quickly be in evidence again. It was essential that they should cross the channel while the scattering clouds still dimmed her brightness, so Manoela and her mother collected such store of food and milk and water as they could lay hands on. Well laden, all five hastened to the creek, and Hozier, Iris and San Benavides boarded the larger of the two catamarans.

When the catamaran rounded the last outlying crag and they were all straining their eyes to find the sentinel pillars they became aware that a small boat was being pulled cautiously toward them from the opposite side of the rock.

Iris gasped. She heard Hozier mutter under his breath, while San Benavides revealed his dismay by an oath and a convulsive tightening of the hands that rested on the girl's shoulders.

Hozier strove with a few desperate strokes of the paddle to reach the shadows of the passage before the catamaran was seen by the boat's occupants. He might have succeeded. But there was even a greater probability that the unwieldy catamaran might be caught by the swell and dashed sidelong against one of the half submerged rocks that thrust their black fangs above the water.

Happily they were spared either alternative. At the very instant that their lot must be put to the test of chance Coke's hoarse accents came to their incredulous ears.

"Let her go, Olsen," he was growling. "We've a clear course now, and that infernal moon will spile everything if we're spotted."

In this instance hearing was believing, and Philip was the first to guess what had actually occurred.

"Boat ahoy, skipper!" he sang out in a joyous hail.

Coke stood up. He glared hard at the reef.

"Did ye 'ear it?" he cried to De Sylva. "Sink me, I 'ope I ain't a copy-in' pore ole Watts, but if that wasn't Hozier's voice I'm goin' dotty."

"It's all right, skipper," said Philip, sending the catamaran ahead with a mighty sweep. "Miss Yorke is here—Captain San Benavides too. I was sure you would look for us if you cleared the harbor safely."

Then Coke proclaimed his sentiments in the approved ritual of the high seas, while the big Norseman at the oars swung the boat's head round until both craft were traveling in company to the waiting launch. Before anything in the nature of an explanation was forthcoming from the occupants of either the boat or the catamaran a broad beam of white light swept over the crest of the island from north to south. It disappeared to return more slowly until it rested on Rat island, at the extreme northwest of the group. It remained steady there, showing a wild panorama of rocky heights and tumbling sea.

"A searchlight!" growled Coke.

"Then there really was a warship!" murmured Iris.

"Ha!" said San Benavides, and his tone was almost gratified, for he had gathered that Hozier was skeptical when told of the rockets. But in that respect at least he was not mistaken. A man-of-war had entered the roadstead, and her powerful lamp was now scouring sea and coast for the missing launch. And in that moment of fresh peril it was forgotten by all but one of the men who had survived so many dangers since the sun last gilded the peak of Fernando Noronha that were it not for Iris having been left behind and Philip's mad plunge overboard to go to her and the point blank refusal of the Andromeda's captain and crew to put to sea without an effort to save the pair of them the launch would not now be hidden behind the black mass of the Grand-pere rock.

CHAPTER XI. ON THE HIGH SEAS.

A GAIN did that awe inspiring wand of light describe a great arc in the sky. But it was plain to be seen that it sprang from an altered base. The warship was in motion. She was about to steam around the group of islands.

Boat and catamaran raced at once for the launch. A babel of strange oaths jarred the brooding silence. Alarm, almost panic, stirred men's hearts and bubbled forth in wild speech. Under pressure of this new peril the instinct of self preservation burst the bonds of discipline.

"Me for the tall timbers, mates. It's each one for hisself now."

"Aye, aye!" came the chorus. "Shove her ashore! Give us a chanst there. We've none at sea."

Dom Corria, being something of a fatalist, did not interfere. He drew San Benavides aside.

"All is ended!" he said quietly. "We shall never see Brazil again, Salvador meu! Carmela must find another lover, it seems."

It was left to Hozier to solve a problem that threatened to develop into a disastrous brawl. Danger sharpens a brave man's wits, but love makes him fey. To succor Iris was now his sole concern. He swung a couple of the excited sailors out of his way and managed to stem the torrent of Coke's futile curses.

"Give in to them!" he cried eagerly. "Tell them they are going ashore in the creek. That will stop the racket. If they listen to me I can still find a means of escape."

"Avast yelpin', you swabs!" bellowed

"IF THAT WASN'T HOZIER'S VOICE I'M GOIN' DOTTY."

Coke. "D'ye want to let every bally sojer on the island know where you are? We're makin' for the creek. Will that please you? Now, Mr. Norrie, let her rip!"

To be Continued.

HOME ENDORSEMENT

Hundreds of Rushville Citizens Can Tell You all About it.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Rushville, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Rushville reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

W. H. Hudson, 1015 North Harrison street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I hold a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills, although I have never used them myself. About six years ago when living in Vernon, Ky., a member of my family was annoyed by pains across the small of the back and other symptoms of kidney complaint. At that time I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a supply. They acted just as represented and in a short time their use brought entire relief. I have unlimited faith in the curative powers of Doan's Kidney Pills and do not hesitate to give them my endorsement."

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to use the ready made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

Has Brilliant Future

That Merril D. Coffin possesses remarkable talent in sculpturing was evidenced Friday night, when five pieces executed by him, were displayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Newsom. The first piece to catch the eye was the life size clay bust of Miss Katherine Newsom. The bust was arranged to revolve on a pedestal and every turn but emphasized a more striking likeness to the original. A person, though totally lacking in technical knowledge of this art, could readily see that the expression and features were almost, if not quite perfect. This piece will be done in plaster paris, says the Carthage Record.

The others were in plaster. They were: bust of a man (modeled from life); head of Brutus; tablet with head of St. John, and head of one of the Medici. Three of these were colored in imitation of bronze.

While a student in the Carthage high school Merril's drawing work indicated great cleverness in that line. He has had but six months study in modeling, but during that time was under the instruction of Barnhorn at the Art Academy at Cincinnati, O. Six weeks before he left school he was promoted to the life class. He was one of two members of the class whose work was exhibited.

About one hundred and twenty-five persons called Friday night, and half that number since, and all have manifested great interest in the exhibit and appreciate this opportunity extended by Mr. and Mrs. Newsom. Punch and wafers were dispensed in the dining room by Miss Zella Wrennick and Miss Katherine Newsom.

THE HOUSE FLY.

The Most Dangerous Animal on Earth.

We are spending considerable time and money in a war on mosquitoes. The cases of malarial reported in Greater New York in 1905 were but 359 and the deaths only 52.

Much more to be feared is the common house-fly. This so-called harmless insect is one of the chief sources of infection, which in New York City causes annually about 650 deaths from typhoid fever and about 7000 deaths yearly from other intestinal diseases. The statistics in practically all American cities—and in many foreign cities, too, for that matter—show a marked rise in the number of deaths from typhoid fever and intestinal diseases during the fly season.

In cities where flies are the chief cause of intestinal epidemics the other seasons of the year show comparative freedom from the disease, while in cities where water and milk epidemics exist these epidemics may occur at any season of the year. The milk epidemic, however, often takes place during the fly season because of the infection of milk by flies at the farm or in the local milk depots.

The danger to health is greatest in parts of the city where sanitary precautions are most neglected; but even if you live in a comparatively well-cared-for part of town do not receive the fly into your home as a harmless visitor, for he may come in a carriage or on horseback from the filthiest spot in the city.

Hitherto the fly has been regarded complacently as a harmless nuisance and considered to be an annoying creature with great persistence and excessive familiarity. Regarded in the light of recent knowledge the fly is more dangerous than the tiger or the cobra. Worse than that, he is, at least in our climate, much more to be feared than the mosquito, and may easily be classed, the world over, as the most dangerous animal on earth—July Review of Reviews.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organs. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by Frank E. Wolcott.

On account of the first Monday falling on July 4th, Miss C. M. Sweitzer, optometrist, of Richmond, Ind., will postpone her day in Rushville until the following Monday, July 11.

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that. I am the one physician who says to the sick, "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help!" And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

When the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are sick, nerves fail, the blood is impure, the system is out of order, Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for that test. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.

But write me first for an order. This will save delay and disappointment. All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but authorized to day test. So please—for I know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for that test. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.

TRYING OUT THE ADMINISTRATION

Col. Roosevelt Taking Counsel With Insurgents.

HAVING DAILY CONFERENCES

Yesterday It Was Miles Poindexter, One of the Militant Insurgents; Tomorrow It Will Be Another Delegation of the Clan, and So on Until the Opponents of the Taft Administration Have Had a Full Hearing.

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 6.—If Colonel Roosevelt is going to fall in line and indorse the administration, as a good many political sharps think he will do, he is employing a novel method of making his attitude known.

The colonel has announced that several of the most rabid insurgents in the country are coming to Sagamore Hill tomorrow. The conference gives indication of being the most important gathering he has taken part in for some time. Roosevelt refused to give out the names of the approaching insurgents. It has been stated that the ex-president is cautiously feeling his way before he lets the public in on how he feels toward the administration. It has been remarked also that the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy is the rock on which Roosevelt and Taft are likely to split. Yesterday, for the first time, the colonel defined clearly his opposition to Secretary Ballinger by telling Representative Miles Poindexter that he will indorse his candidacy in the fight for the United States senatorship against Senator Piles of Washington.
Piles is identified with the Ballinger wing of the Republican party in the state of Washington. Poindexter is an out-and-out supporter of Pinchot and a militant insurgent.

There is, of course, the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt will support the administration in due time, but he is in no hurry about it. He himself has summoned nearly every one of his political visitors to Sagamore Hill. He wants to hear the insurgent side of the story first, and then perhaps later he may ask some of the regulars to drop in and explain the stand they have taken during his absence. Judging from his program the colonel is going to work the New York state and national game together because he thinks they are pretty closely related.

SAD DAYS AT RENO

Everybody There Is Busted, Worn Out and Full of Grouch.

Reno, July 6.—James J. Jeffries left last night, accompanied by his wife, Jim Corbett, Sam Berger and the more humble members of his training camp.
The beaten ex-champ said he was going back to his ranch in Los Angeles county, and he reiterated his statement that you could believe him, he was not going to fight again.

Johnson, the winner of the battle, departed for the east a few hours after the end of the fight, in a blaze of glory.
He will spend tomorrow with his mother in Chicago, and Friday he will go on to New York, where he is scheduled to appear in vaudeville on Monday night. These are sad days in Reno.
Tired, "busted," a bad taste in the mouth, all the nervous relaxation following the pent-up emotions of the past ten days, no deader town exists in the country than Reno. In the first place, everybody in Reno except the canny storekeepers, hotel men and keepers of lodging houses are dead broke because of their belief in the invincibility of Jeff. Nobody will ever know how much money was bet on Jeff in Corbett's poolroom here, because Corbett himself has packed up his charts and left for Frisco. A minority of sports made a great cleanup, but just who they are nobody seems to know.

Perhaps the most worried people in Reno are the traffic handlers of the railroad. The traffic has been tremendous. The rush out of Reno commenced within an hour after the fight ended, and it is still on in full swing.
Something like 160 special trains and special cars on regular trains have been dumped on the main overland lines of track, and they are all filled with people who have a grouch.

Promoter Rickard says the total receipts for admission to the arena amounted to $270,775. Of the total number of 18,000 present at the fight, 15,760 paid to get in, 760 received complimentary tickets and about 1,500 climbed over the fence.

THE FULLER FUNERAL

Body of the Late Chief Justice Will Be Buried at Chicago.

Sorrento, Me., July 6.—The services attending the funeral of the late Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller were held at "Mainstay," the Fuller summer residence, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The services were of a simple nature and were conducted by Rev. Mr. Freeman.
The body, accompanied by the mourning party, will be taken on the 4:40
p. m. steamer to Mount Desert ferry, where the late afternoon express will take it and the mourners to Boston.
There connections will be made for an early train to Chicago tomorrow. The day of the funeral in Chicago has not been decided, but it will be either Friday or Saturday.

A WARM INSURGENT.

Congressman Miles Poi-dexter of Washington.

NEWELL'S SCALP AT BALLINGER'S BELT

Thus Saith Rumor About Burgess Point.

Beverly, Mass., July 6.—The reclamation service was up for a long discussion at the summer capital. Secretary of the Interior Ballinger got here early, went over to the cottage on Burgess Point, and stayed there for five hours.

He left for Boston and Washington without having resigned; but, it is said in some circles here, with the scalp of Director F. H. Newell of the reclamation service in his portfolio.
Mr. Ballinger absolutely refused to discuss the question of the removal of Mr. Newell. The White House preferred not to talk about it, too; but the impression prevailed that Mr. Newell's finish is coming swiftly.

The report that Mr. Newell is to go is based upon the undoubted fact that he and the secretary of the interior do not agree. It is pretty broadly hinted that with Newell in office the reclamation schemes of the secretary might meet with opposition. If Ballinger sought to get the head of Mr. Newell from the president it is likely that he got encouragement, at least.

Outside of the discussion which arose at the conference in relation to Mr. Newell, the president and his secretary of the interior discussed the land withdrawals affirmed recently by the president, and dwelt for some time on the classification of those lands by the department.

The secretary looked confident, stepped with a spring that betokened that some of the weight that rested on his shoulders a few months ago had lifted, and laughed at the rumors that he had come to resign. "I have not brought any resignation with me," said the secretary, "and I don't intend to leave any when I go away. I am not a quitter. I have gone into this thing and I intend to fight it out."

MAJOR SYLVESTER

Washington Police Head Starts Crusade Against Fight Pictures.

POLICE CHIEFS MAY BAR FIGHT PICTURES

President of Association Takes Strong Ground.

Washington, July 6.—No pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight will be exhibited publicly in the District of Columbia. This dictum has gone forth from Major Richard Sylvester, chief of police, and also president of the International Police association.

In taking his stand, Major Sylvester called attention to the fact that this association of police chiefs at its last meeting at Birmingham, Ala., unanimously adopted a resolution in which 200 police chiefs in the United States subscribed to the assertion that moving pictures which were of such a character as to tend to the increase of crime corrupted public morals, and as such should be suppressed.

"The newspaper reports from Reno plainly bring the Johnson Jeffries fight pictures within the scope of this resolution," said Mayor Sylvester.
"The newspaper reports from other parts of the country indicate beyond all question that race hatred was engendered by the mere bulletins concerning this affair. Such occurrences are out of joint with the peace and good order of the present day in this country. Anything that tends to increase race hatred or sectionalism has no place whatever in the affairs of the American people if we live up to the spirit of today."

Reports from west and south indicate that the picture venture of the fight will not be much of a financial success. Mayor Schwab of Cincinnati, in a statement, said the pictures will not be permitted to be publicly exhibited in that city. The city council of Atlanta, Ga., will pass an ordinance at its meeting tonight expressly prohibiting the exhibition of the fight pictures in the city. In Baltimore the board of police commissioners has asked the mayor to prohibit the showing of the fight pictures. From South Africa has come a cablegram saying that all the bioscope halls in Johannesburg have refused offers to place the fight pictures, fearing they would cause outbreaks of latent racial antipathies.

ELEPHANTS ARE SHOW FEATURE

Troupe With Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus Said to be Very Versatile and Intelligent.

WORK IN GORGEOUS APPAREL

In Each Performance The Monsters Are Divided Into Companies in Each Ring.

Without doubt the most intelligent and versatile pachyderms ever seen in America are the score of elephants with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows, which exhibit here Monday, July, 18. Their field of usefulness is not confined to pageantry and performances, though they are especially prominent in these dual roles. No elephant bearing in state Indian prince or potentate was ever more gorgeously robed and bedecked than these circus elephants in the Hagenbeck-Wallace street parade. Clothes of gold-fringed velvet embroidered with silver thread and covered with brilliant ornaments, reach to the ground on either side, leaving only the heads of the ponderous beasts exposed. On their backs are immense howdahs, designed after the most ornamental of those used by East Indian dignitaries in the great durbar. The style of architecture is extremely oriental; there is extravagant use of gold leaf and jewels and the furnishings are of costliest silks and satins. In the howdahs the elephant trainers are seated garbed in regal splendor, representing oriental potentates.

At the performance in the arena displays the elephants are divided in companies, filing the three rings, giving a forceful illustration of man's mastery over the biggest brutes of the animal kingdom. These modern mastodons interpret intricate drills, the latest terpsichorean triumphs, including the famous Salome dance, form mountainous pyramids and elephantine tableaux, play provoking planks and in many other ways show astounding agility and surprising sagacity.

It is a noteworthy fact, however, that as working elephants this Hagenbeck-Wallace group of pachyderms excel. Trained and broken as beasts of burden on the public works of Ceylon, they have not been permitted to forget their earlier teachings. Driven by their trainers, they carry in their trunks the heaviest tent poles without apparent effort. The primitive method of pushing wagons with their heads is sometimes resorted to by them or with ropes in their mouths they easily pull the largest trucks and dens, moving them with ease, though they be hub deep in the mire. At feeding time the elephants are sometimes led to the hay pile outside the tent. Each animal with his trunk picks up a hundred pound bale and carries it into the menagerie tent. With a stamp of the foot they break the binding wire and proceed to munch the meal they have thus prepared. As extra pay for their efforts they are given handfuls of peanuts and choice dainties that would delight the average child. They relish these with a gusto highly epicurean and show their gratitude by loud trumpeting. Such interesting sights as these are to be seen daily on the show grounds of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows.

SHOUT WHEN BANJO TWANGES

Holiness People at Hartsville Sing and Dance in Real Old Fashioned Revival.

BREAD BREAKING, A FEATURE

Women Hugged and Kissed Each Other While Men Did Likewise Among Themselves.

A religious meeting conducted at the Holiness church in Hartsville in Bartholomew county, near the Decatur county line, has just closed and it attracted no end of attention in that town because of the peculiar actions of those who conducted the meeting. The Rev. Mr. Middleton of Hartsville, is pastor of the church, but those who had charge of this meeting were four people known as the Myers family of Shelbyville. The family is composed of a man and a woman, a boy and girl.

The Myers delegation was armed with musical instruments such as banjos and tambourines, and the quick and lively music must have gotten into the feet of some of the members of the congregation, because at one service several left their seats and bounced up and down as if they had rubber or springs in their shoes. If the jumping had not been in a church it would doubtless have been called dancing, because the music kept going constantly and the shouts of those who were in a religious fever mingled with the twang of the banjo strings.

One feature of the meeting was the "bread breaking." Each person in the audience was given a piece of bread, and after the bread was distributed each person was supposed to offer to break bread with his neighbor. If anyone had a grudge against another he offered him the bread and if it was broken this broke off the trouble between the two. A highly interesting feature of the bread breaking was the fact that the women threw their arms around each other and held fast in tight embrace, while the men did the same thing among themselves. The sight of men hugging and kissing each other was something new in the annals of religious life in Hartsville.

The sect holding the meetings believe in "feet washing" but that custom has not been practiced during the recent meeting. This phase of the service is for the men and women to doff their shoes and stockings, after which there is a general feet washing in the church. It is said that this custom has really been tried once or twice at the Holiness church in the past.

A good many years ago it was the common thing for people in country churches and also in churches in the smaller towns to become excited during religious services and shout, but that custom has been dying out, and this gave added attraction to the Holiness meeting.

SOCIETY NEWS

The Goshen Daily News of Saturday contains the following society notes of interest: Miss Pauline Coverston is entertaining about twenty-five friends at a porch party at her home on South Seventh street this afternoon, in honor of her guests from Rushville and Knightstown. Miss Florence Wollam will entertain this evening at her home for Misses Helen Seudder, Frances Frazee, Dorothy Thomas, Nettie Clark, Emma Wilk, Alma Green and Wanda Wyatt. The young ladies are from Rushville, Ind., and are the guests of Miss Pauline Coverston.

The C. W. B. M. of the Main Street Christian church met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Alexander, west of this city.

The members of the Morgan Street Primitive Baptist church are desired at the next regular meeting on account of the election of three trustees.

SIX MILLERS LAY CLAIM TO HONORS

Believed to be the Oldest Living Brother in the State of Indiana.

MANY OF THEM LIVE HERE

Recent publication of the photographs of the six noted Booher brothers, living at Darlington, Ind., has served to awaken interest throughout Indiana in the subject of the "oldest living brothers," says a dispatch from Morristown. Several groups have made claims in competition with the Boohers, most notably probably being the six Miller brothers living in Morristown and in nearby towns. Friends procured their photographs and have furnished information regarding their ages, etc. They give as a reason for their belief that the Millers outrank the Boohers, the fact that the combined ages of the former make 436 years, while the latter show only 429.

The occupations of the brothers are Simeon Miller, farmer; Noah, retired, lives at Fountaintown, a few miles distant; Jacob K. Miller, farmer; John H. Miller, local resident and farmer; Lewis C. Miller, physician, Kokomo; Ephraim Miller, farmer, near Kokomo. Simeon Miller, Noah Miller and Jacob K. Miller served as home guards during the civil war, and John H. Miller, Lewis C. Miller and Ephraim Miller were soldiers in the Union army throughout the great conflict. The brothers are cousins of John M. Kern, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate. The Miller family came to Indiana from Ohio in 1839. The thirteenth annual family reunion will be held August 20 at "The Pines," the country home of John H. Miller, near Morristown.

AMUSEMENTS

The management of the Star Grand will present tonight a Biograph drama entitled, "A Child's Impulse," a touching play, where the powerful influence of a child's pleading restores a recreant lover, beguiled by a wily widow, to the arms of his former heart-crushed sweetheart. Earl Robertson will sing "You're Just Too Sweet to Live."

The Palace theater will show a good picture tonight in the film, "The Miner's Sacrifice." It is a western drama, said to be of the class of subjects which especially appeal to lovers of good drama. It depicts an interesting as well as entertaining story of western life. Miss Iva Brown will sing a new illustrated song.

"Rivalry of the Two Guides" is the title of the film to be shown at the Vandet theater tonight. It is a drama of much merit. The scenes of the story are laid in Italy and are said to be very picturesque, showing the real artistic surroundings in the southern climes. A new illustrated song will be on the program.

The governors of Australia and Canada each receive a salary of $50,000 yearly.

A RECORD CATCH.

Frank Anspaugh, a turtle hunter of St. Paul, has made a record catch. Accompanied by Ross Coy of Adams, near there, they visited the small streams south of Adams yesterday, and bagged forty-four turtles which tipped the scales at 160 pounds. Anspaugh, who is one of the most daring turtle hunters in the country, says this is the largest one day's catch he has ever made.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

MEANEST MAN IS FOUND.

(Kokomo Tribune.)

The meanest man has been found. Rather, he has not been found, but the police are looking for him. He is the man who stole fourteen chickens (all she had) from Mrs. Mary L. Moore, a widow who is past middle age, and who lives in a tiny cottage of two rooms near the Columbia pottery works.

Two weeks ago a thief stole six chickens from Mrs. Moore. She did not report the matter to the police, and they knew nothing of it until the theft of the fourteen Monday night.

HAS FOUR WINGED GESE.

(Columbus Republican.)

Henry King, colored, has at his home on North Jackson street, some geese that are unusual for these parts to say the least. They are unusual for their wings, with which they are more fully equipped than is the ordinary goose, in that they have four instead of the regulation two. Their wings are not in two separate and distinct sets, but the extra ones are extensions of the ordinary ones. At the point where the wing ceases to be on an ordinary goose another wing is added to these geese of superfluous wings.

These unusual flying appendages seem not to be freaks of nature, but rather seem to belong to a special breed of geese. One very unusual circumstance connected with Mr. King's geese of the remarkably winged variety is that from a setting of eggs produced from the gander of ordinary wings and a goose of extraordinary wings is that three of the six goslings hatched have ordinary wings, while the other three have the extraordinary wings, or, in other words, three of them resemble the mother goose and three resemble the gander in the matter of wings.
